Malaysia Smelting Corporation (SMELT MK)

Tin Prices Soar: Supply Tightness To Drive Prices In 2024

MSC is poised for significant growth in 2024 as LME tin prices have soared 43% ytd, mainly due to ongoing supply constraints. Additionally, earnings are supported by enhanced production output and improved margins from its new eco-friendly plant. Based on our sensitivity analysis, every US$1,000/mt change in our tin price assumptions would affect earnings by 6%. Upgrade 2024/25/26 earnings by 16%/23%/22% respectively. Maintain BUY. Target price: RM3.60.

WHAT'S NEW

- Expect sequentially stronger 1Q24 results. Malaysia Smelting Corporation's (MSC) 1Q24 results are scheduled to be released tentatively in mid-May. We expect 1Q24 core earnings to come in at RM27m-29m (+91% to +95% qoq; -16% to -22% yoy) on the back of: a) sequentially stronger 1Q24 average LME tin prices of US$26,195/tonne (vs 4Q23's average price of US$24,705/tonne), b) similar cost structures, and c) higher utilisation rate from TSL furnaces. We expect MSC to register full-year core earnings of RM1,653m-1,827m (+54% to +60% yoy) on the back of higher LME tin prices and cost saving from the closing down of Butterworth plant.
- LME tin prices on the rise since 2024 (+43% ytd), mainly driven by supply disruption. The autonomous northeastern state of Myanmar has suspended all mining activities in the Man Maw mine area since Aug 23 to protect the remaining mining resources. It is important to note that Myanmar's Wa region contributes approximately 10% of global tin production and accounted for 73% of China's refined tin imports in 2023. Coupled with delays in the renewal of export licenses for tin exports from Indonesia (19% of global tin supply) since Feb 24, this situation is expected to create near-term supply disruptions for tin. Additionally, M23 rebels' takeover of the mineral transport route between Masisi and Goma in Apr 24 will cause delays in tin shipment as shipments are rerouted to avoid rebel-controlled areas. Note that Alphamin Resources' Bisie mine, which represented 4.5% of global tin mine production in 2023, is located approximately 180km west of Goma. All these have led to current LME tin inventory of 4,200 tonnes (-45% ytd), which can only support global consumption for about four days.
- Expect a stronger 2024, driven by enhanced production output in both the mining and smelting segments, alongside higher LME tin prices. MSC has increased its average daily mining output to approximately 10.3mt/day (up from 9.5mt/day in 2022). With the addition of a new mining area from ABSB, MSC is poised to surpass 12-13mt/day, potentially boosting earnings by around 12% in the next 2-3 years. On the smelting side, we expect improved utilisation rates post-rebrick exercise in Aug 23.

STOCK IMPACT

- Pulau Indah plant will help to improve its margin in 2024. With full commission, MSC expects higher operational efficiency to boost its margin this year. As at end-Dec 23, the Pulau Indah plant had reached 100% capacity. It has 50% higher capacity, yielding an additional 20,000mt/year. The plant boasts production costs that are at least 20% lower than the old ones in Penang as it has better efficiency. Additionally, it also requires 45% lesser labour cost (from 550 to 300 employees). Higher average tin prices will help to partially offset the elevated production cost (energy, fuel, reductant, labour) amid the ongoing inflation. The intermediates now stand at around 5.2kmt and it will take about two years to complete the smelting. This will help to boost earnings going forward.
- Reducing reliance on imported ores. The new mining technologies and the new tin resources from ABSB will help to contribute to the smelting operations, reducing reliance on imported tin ores and strengthening earnings as internal ores typically command higher margins. MSC's own tin ores from RHT typically contribute around 10% of the raw materials for its smelting activities while the other 90% comes from local artisanal miners and other countries. With the new mining technologies and the access to additional tin resources of at least 3,890mt, the contribution from internal tin ore consumption will further increase to 15-20% in next 1-2 years. With the latest tin price of US$35,000/mt, the implied value for the combined new tin resources is around RM612.7m (US$136.2.3m). The 3,890mt can be considered as a minimum deposit value as MSC will perform a more comprehensive valuation, which may translate to a higher value.

- Eco-friendly tin to enjoy higher demand. There is an increasing awareness in the market regarding responsibly sourced tin, which will boost demand for "green tin". There is more demand from downstream customers for transparent ESG reporting. Based on a survey conducted by Assent, around 70% of consumers are willing to pay a "green premium" for responsibly sourced metal. This will benefit MSC as its new plant in Pulau Indah is equipped with 1.26MWp solar PV panels and a waste heat recovery function that will harness thermal energy from the furnace's flue gas to generate power. The use of natural gas and the new top submerged lance furnace will raise efficiency and reduce carbon emissions (by 1,000mt/year). To date, the solar panels have already yielded energy savings of 20%.

EARNINGS REVISION/RISK

- Upgrade 2024/25/26 earnings by 25%/23%/22% respectively, mainly to account for higher assumption of tin prices (an increase of US$2,000/tonne and US$3,000/tonne to US$29,000/tonne and US$31,000/tonne vs Bloomberg consensus of US$33,409/tonne and US$35,063/tonne for 2024 and 2025 respectively).

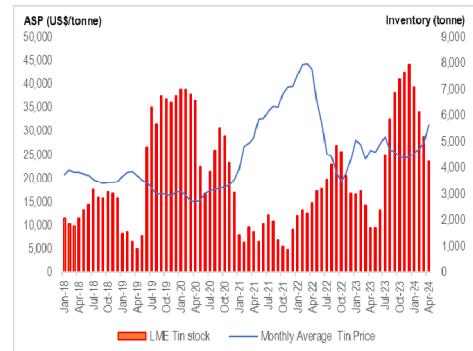

VALUATION/RECOMMENDATION

- Maintain BUY with a higher target price of RM3.60, based on rolled over 10x 2025F PE (at its five-year mean PE). Based on our analysis, every US$1,000/mt change in our tin price assumptions would affect earnings by about 6% a year in 2025.

ENVIRONMENTAL, SOCIAL, GOVERNANCE (ESG) UPDATES

Environmental
- MSC is upgrading the mini hydro plant at RHT mine from 1.0MW to 5.00MW. The current 1.0MW mini hydro plant generates 19% of the Group's total energy needs.
Social
- In 2022, 93% of its total workforce were local Malaysians.
Governance
- The majority of MSC's board members are independent (four out of six board members).
